Last Updated: May 1, 2026

Telephos LLC (together with its affiliated companies – "Telephos", "we", "our" or "us") puts great efforts in making sure that personal data processed by us is safe and used properly, and that our data practices are properly communicated to our Clients, Users and Prospects.

This Privacy Policy describes how we collect, store, use, and disclose the following types of personal data:

Client-Owned Data: data relating to identified or identifiable individuals that we collect, process and manage on our Clients' behalf, as part of the Telephos.ai platform ("Platform"). Such data ("Client-Owned Data") relates to call transcripts, Slack company data, chatbot interactions, and internal training data that our Clients provide to us for processing through our Services;

Telephos User Data: contact, contractual and billing details concerning our Clients, which may also contain the details of their internal focal persons who directly engage with Telephos concerning their organizational account, and users of the Platform on behalf of such Clients, e.g., the account administrators and users, billing contacts and authorized signatories on behalf of the Client; as well as the Client's needs and preferences, as identified to us or recognized through our engagement with them ("Users" and "User Data" as relevant);

Telephos Prospect Data: data relating to our Clients, visitors of our website (<https://www.telephos.ai>), participants at our events, and any other prospective client or partner who visits or otherwise interacts with any of our websites, online ads and content, emails or communications under our control ("Sites" and collectively with the Platform, the "Services") ("Prospect" and "Prospect Data" as relevant).

If you are our Client, User, or Prospect ("you"), please read this Privacy Policy carefully and make sure that you fully understand and agree to it. If you are a Client, please also review the Terms of Service, which governs your use of the Services.

You are not legally required to provide us with any personal data, and may do so (or avoid doing so) at your own free will. If you do not wish to provide us with your personal data, or to have it processed by us or any of our Service Providers (defined below), please avoid any interaction with us including visiting our Sites or using our Services. If you are a User of the Services on behalf of any of our Clients, we suggest that you contact your account administrator with any questions.

1. Data Collection & Processing

(i) Client-Owned Data

Our Services provide our Clients with a single, AI-powered platform that ingests call transcripts and related business communications, applies a unified labeling and enrichment pipeline to that content, and surfaces the resulting intelligence through integrated capabilities (signal routing, research and call preparation, chat and search interfaces, reports, dashboards, notifications, and exports). Certain privacy and data protection laws require that prior to processing personal data, a legal basis for such processing be established. Accordingly, while Telephos supports these laws by providing our Clients with features and options for how they use our Services – our Client is solely responsible for determining whether and how they wish to use our Services and such features, and to ensure that the appropriate legal basis for the processing of Client-Owned Data has been established by the Client, prior to having such data processed through the Services.

Telephos processes Client-Owned Data, and the personal data contained in it, strictly on our Client's behalf, in accordance with their reasonable instructions and as further stipulated in our Data Processing Addendum and other commercial agreements with such Client.

Accordingly, to the extent applicable by law, our Client will be deemed the 'data controller' of Client-Owned Data; and Telephos will be deemed the 'data processor' or 'service provider' when processing such data, as further described in Section 9 below.

While Telephos may process some User Data on its Clients' behalf, as its 'data processor' or 'service provider' we also use it for our own purposes, (as described in Section 2 below) as an independent and separate 'data controller' or 'business' (as further described in Section 9 below).

Please note that Telephos is not responsible for and does not control any further disclosure, use or monitoring by or on behalf of the Client, that itself acts as the 'data controller' of such data (as further described in Section 9 below).

We may disclose personal data with others if we believe in good faith that this will help protect the rights, property, or personal safety of Telephos, any of our Users or Clients, or any members of the general public.

Telephos Subsidiaries and Affiliated Companies

We may disclose personal data internally within our group, for the purposes described in this Privacy Policy. In addition, should Telephos or any of its subsidiaries or affiliates undergo any change in control or ownership, including by means of merger, acquisition or purchase of substantially all or part of its assets, personal data may be disclosed or transferred to the parties involved in such an event. If we believe that such a change in control might materially affect your personal data then stored with us, we will notify you of this event and the choices you may have via e-mail or a prominent notice on our Services.

For the avoidance of doubt, Telephos may disclose User Data and Prospect Data in additional manners, pursuant to your explicit approval, or if we are legally obligated to do so, or if we have successfully rendered such data non-personal, non-identifiable and anonymous. 7. Data Security

To protect your personal data held with us, we use industry-standard physical, procedural and technical security measures, including encryption as appropriate. However, please be aware that regardless of any security measures used, we cannot and do not guarantee the absolute protection and security of any personal data stored with us or with any third parties as described in Section 5 above.

8. Data Subject Rights

Individuals have rights concerning their personal data under applicable law, including the California Consumer Privacy Act (CCPA), the California Privacy Rights Act (CPRA), or other applicable U.S. privacy laws.

Such rights may include: (i) to know/request access to personal data (specific pieces of personal data collected; categories of personal data collected; categories of sources from whom the personal data was collected; purpose of collecting personal data; categories of third-parties to whom we have disclosed personal data), (ii) to request rectification or erasure of personal data held with Telephos, (iii) to restrict or object to such personal data's processing (including the right to direct us not to sell your personal data to third parties now or in the future), (iv) to port such personal data, or (v) to equal services and prices. To exercise any of these rights you may have, please contact us by e-mail at: dpo@telephos.ai.

Please note that when you ask us to exercise any of your rights under this policy or applicable law, we may need to ask you to provide certain credentials to make sure that you are who you claim you are (to avoid disclosure to you of personal data related to others) and to provide further information to better understand the nature and scope of data for which you request access. Such additional data will be then retained by us for legal purposes (e.g. as proof of the identity of the person submitting the request, or proof of request fulfillment).

We may redact from the data that we will make available to you, any personal data or confidential information related to others.

If your request relates to personal data that we process on our Client's behalf (i.e. Client-Owned Data), you should contact such Client directly, as they are the "data controller" of such data (see Section 9 below).

9. Data Controller/Processor

Certain data protection laws and regulations typically distinguish between two main roles for parties processing personal data: the "data controller" who determines the purposes and means of processing; and the "data processor" who processes the data on behalf of the data controller. Below we explain how these roles apply to our Services, to the extent such laws and regulations apply.

Telephos is the "data controller" of Telephos Prospect Data. With respect to such data, we assume the responsibilities of data controller (solely to the extent applicable under law) as set forth in this Privacy Policy. In such instances, our Service Providers processing such data will assume the role of "data processor".

Telephos is the "data processor" of Client-Owned Data, which we process on behalf of our Client (who is the "data controller" of such data); and our Service Providers, who process such Client-Owned Data on our behalf, are the "sub-processors" of such data.

Telephos is both a "data controller" and "data processor" of Telephos User Data. Such data is processed by Telephos for its own purposes (as described in Section 2 above) as an independent 'controller'; while certain portions of it which are included in Client-Owned Data are processed by us on our Client's behalf, as a 'processor'.

Accordingly, Telephos processes Client-Owned Data strictly in accordance with such Client's reasonable instructions and as further stipulated in our Data Processing Addendum and other commercial agreements with such Client. The Client, as controller of such data, will be responsible for meeting any legal requirements applicable to data controllers (such as establishing a legal basis for processing and responding to Data Subject Rights requests concerning the data they control).

For the avoidance of doubt, each Client is solely responsible for establishing a legal basis for proceeding and providing adequate notice to their account users and clients whose data may be contained in Client-Owned Data (including sufficient reference to the processing of their personal data via the Services), and any other information necessary to comply with all applicable privacy and data protection laws; as well as for obtaining all approvals and consents from such individuals as required under such laws.

After such notice period, all amendments shall be deemed accepted by you.
